ENTRY SLIPS GO OUT NEXT WEEK FOR TRACK MEET

Mail 183 Blanks to High School Principals Over State. Start Work on Souvenir Programs But Data Not Yet Complete for Printers.

Entry blanks for the State Interscholastic Track and Field Meet, to be held here next month, will be mailed out to principals of 183 high schools throughout the state next week, it was announced today. Letter is being included with each blank urging the school to be sure to fill in blanks out properly, and to return them in ample time. Entries will close May 6, and no blanks arriving later than that date will be accepted.

Material for the souvenir programs being gathered and prepared, according to Dr. J. P. Rowe, chairman of the Faculty Interscholastic committee. The programs will be similar to those of other years, he said, but will not be printed for some time yet. All the necessary data can be obtained. The ticket drive for the affair will probably get under way around the first of May.

Biographical Matter Is Left in Montana

You Like It Club Told Saturday by Dean A. L. Stone.

"Scattered all over the state there yet available biographical material Montana makers," was the theme Dean A. L. Stone's talk to the "You Like It" club at a meeting held at the Journalism shack Tuesday afternoon, April 8.

Dean Stone stated that the biography is challenged the novel in popularity the last three or four years. Biographies are classified into three well-known groups, but there is a fourth group which is generally disregarded, that of the little things of daily life. This is the Montana biographies which are composed of the little things of daily life. Such women as "Gumbo Sal," "Poker Alice" and "Calamity Jane" are prominent in Montana history, but were wives, sisters and daughters who stood beside their men to make a state. Students having had contact with these women collected and wrote the material for the Journalism shack records.

There is yet much work to be done in the making of Montana biographies. While material is fresh, and sources available, now is the time to take care of our biographical work.

Dean Stone closed with the statement that we should take and enshrine in material properly thereby making permanent record of what is of great value to the still unwritten history of Montana.

FRESHMAN WOMEN'S TEAM DEBATES BILLINGS NORMAL DELEGATES HERE

Discuss Disarmament Question at Regular No Decision Match Before Sacred Heart and Loyola Schools.

Rita Walker and Catherine Fouts, freshman women representing the University of Montana, debated the disarmament question yesterday afternoon before the Sacred Heart and Loyola high schools with Ruth Shively and Lillian Schatz, representing the Eastern Montana Normal School at Billings. The Montana team had the affirmative side of the question. The debate was a regular type one with 15-minute main speeches and seven-minute rebuttals. Sterling Stapp, member of the varsity debate team, acted as chairman.

Rita Walker in her speech presented the horrors of war and gave the following advantages of disarmament: delaying the beginning of war, relieving the world of cost and expense and reducing the fear and suspicion among nations. Catherine Fouts said that now was the time to disarm and that the next step in educating for world peace was in disarmament. The Billings debaters presenting the negative side of the question stressed the impracticability of disarmament, the possibility of its leading to another war, its failure to remove the old causes for which war still prevails, and advocated gradual disarmament. The debate was a no decision one.

ONE-ACT BILL TO BE APRIL 17

Costs Made Up Principally of Veteran Players.

Veterans constitute the major part of the players appearing in a group of three one-act plays at the Little Theater April 17. Three-fourths of the 16 actors taking part in this bill have appeared previously on Masques' programs. Two of the plays presented next week are original plays written by students.

In "Spring Sluicing" by Alice Hanson Ernst, three veterans and one new member constitute the cast. Marian Hobbs is director of this play. W. A. Brown has had dramatic experience in four major productions of the Masques, appearing in "Twelve Thousand," "Whitehead Boy," "Dying for Money" and "Hell Bent for Heaven."

Clifton Hengren is also experienced, having played in three one-acts before, "The Man Born to Be Hanged," "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife," and "Ropes." Emory Bourdeau, the other member of this cast that has appeared before, played in "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife" and in last quarter's major production, "Hell Bent for Heaven." The new member is Clifton Rohlf, who has the part of Lumpy Peters.

The cast of "The Undertaking Undertaker," written by Paul Trochler, is composed of seven veterans and a new member who has not previously played in any of the plays. Betty Torrence will direct this one-act. She was the assistant to the director of "Hell Bent for Heaven."

Albert Erickson has played the leading role in two major productions of this season, "Dying for Money" and "Hell Bent for Heaven." (Continued on Page 3)

Pamphlets Interest Home Ec Students

The library has recently received a number of pamphlets from the Better Homes in America club, which has its offices in Washington, D. C. ## LIMIT AD MEDIA TO SIX ORGANS

Other Publications Must Receive Approval of Committee.

Six University publications were approved and permitted to secure local advertising without curtailment from the Publications committee it was decided at a recent meeting of the committee, according to Clarence Powell, chairman. The approved publications are The Montana Kaimin, Sentinel, Frontier, Alumnus, Forestry Kaimin and Campus Rinkings.

The local advertising field is limited and the committee found it necessary to curtail many of the smaller publications which are really not significant as part of life of the student body, Powell said. It will be necessary in the future for any individual, groups, etc. desiring to publish pamphlets, programs, inserts, etc., to secure approval from Publications committee before actual work begins.

The following recommendations were made for reference to the constitutional revision committee for incorporation into the constitution:

No campus programs may carry local advertising without the approval of the Publications board, obtained a month in advance.

No programs carrying local advertising will be approved by the Publications committee where profits are to go to an individual or organization other than the A. S. U. M.

Programs carrying local advertising must be specially approved by the Publications committee a month in advance of the date of publication.

The committee also recommended an amendment to the A. S. U. M. constitution, upon the approval of Central Board as follows: The Editor of the Sentinel, Editor of the Kaimin and Business Manager of the Kaimin be ex-officio members of the Publications committee.

Art works of Anthony D'Orazi, former University student, will be shown in an exhibit in Main hall next week. The work to be shown is life class drawing which, according to Prof. C. H. D'Orazi has been awarded a students' assistant position at the Art Students League, this position is given to the most outstanding student in the department.

MINES WINS TWO TO ONE DECISION

Larsen and Martin Uphold Negative in Debate.

Montana School of Mines, taking the affirmative side of the question, resolved: That lobbying plays a necessary part in the operation of our government, won the debate with the University of Montana last night by a two to one decision of the judges. The cross examination method of debate was used.

"I think Mr. Lindsey has worked out a plan of debate that makes it much more interesting," said Mr. U. T. Scott, debate coach of the School of Mines and Walter Camp of Montana. "I am very much pleased. It holds the interest of the audience and entices the debaters."

Thomas McBride, representing the School of Mines taking the affirmative, opened the debate with the senatorial definition of lobbying: any effort to influence the action of Congress in its law-making by such methods as getting, distributing and interviewing for information. McBride gave two types of lobbying: the permanent organizations which number over 500 in Washington, D. C., representing national organizations such as the American Federation of Labor and the United States Chamber of Commerce; and temporary. In the latter classification comes the unorganized lobbying such as is employed in the mill and bond issue sponsored by the educational and other institutions in Montana; and the unorganized such as individuals sending letters or personally interviewing their representatives or senators. He also included those (Continued on Page 3)

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION GRANTED TO U. BY STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

C. H. McLeod and Dean Hamilton Conferred Honorary Degrees in Recognition of Service.

Pres. C. H. Clapp returned Tuesday from a State Board of Education meeting at Helena. The board granted permission to open a School of Education at the State University and also conferred honorary degrees upon two prominent Montanans, Dean James M. Hamilton of Montana State college and C. H. McLeod of Missoula.

According to Pres. Clapp the board first gave permission to establish a school of education here in 1919 but no definite action was taken, but now a regular and definite course of study for the new school would be instituted. There will be no additional expense at present but later the expansion will incur an expenditure of about $3,000 a year.

The two honorary degrees that were conferred by the board were in recognition of the service rendered by Dean Hamilton and C. H. McLeod for education in the state. These men were given the degree of honorary doctor of law. The formal ceremony of conferring these degrees will be held later.

Formal Recognition of Service.

At a meeting of the State Board of Education held the early part of the week in Helena, honorary degrees were conferred upon C. H. McLeod, prominent Missoula business man, and Dean James H. Hamilton of the Montana State College. Formal conferring ceremonies will take place later.

On March 29, five hundred friends and neighbors of C. H. McLeod gathered to mark the fiftieth anniversary of McLeod's coming here. Mr. McLeod has been a leader in Missoula and Western Montana for virtually all of his active life. When Mr. McLeod first came to Missoula he was associated with the Eddy-Hammond store. The store has since become the Missoula Mercantile Company and Mr. McLeod is active in this company.

Governor Erickson said of Mr. McLeod in his talk at the dinner, "C. H. McLeod has been not only a citizen of Missoula but a citizen of Montana. He is more prominent than a citizen, he has become a conspicuous citizen by reason of his services to his community and his state."

Pres. C. H. Clapp said, "I don't believe there's been a difficult problem connected with the University that I haven't asked your help in solving. . . The University is grateful to the McLeod's."

Dean Hamilton was associated with the University in its very early days. He acted in the capacity of vice-president and professor. Dean Hamilton came to Missoula as superintendent of public schools. Hamilton left here to become president of the State College at Bozeman. Since 1904 he has been dean of men at that branch of the Greater University of Montana.

In October, 1929, the students at Bozeman designated a day as Dean Hamilton's day. This day was to mark his twenty-fifth anniversary as dean of men at Montana State college. Dean Hamilton has been a friend to numbers of Montana students who are now men and women and his vital interest in Montana welfare has caused them to be better citizens of our state.

Students of Montana are proud of these men with whom they have been so closely associated and pleased that their services in Montana education are being formally recognized.

PAN-HELLENIC

MEMBERS of Pan-Hellenic will stage their annual dance at the Elite tonight. Pan-Hellenic established the custom of a dance for the members of all sororities a number of years ago. It is a practice which has led toward better feeling among the members of various houses.

This year Pan-Hellenic has sponsored an exchange of dinner guests between sororities to promote better feeling. Officers of Pan-Hellenic have urged co-eds to secure dances from members of other groups. The idea of the dance is to get-together.

OUR GOLF COURSE

JUST to call your attention to something that perhaps you didn't know, or had forgotten—

This golf course just south of the campus—the Garden City Golf Course—did you know that it belongs to the Alumni Association of the State University of Montana? And furthermore, that it is maintained by the University?

Formerly it was just an ordinary course, but just last winter it was enlarged until it now has 18 holes. An 18-hole golf course for its students—that's something of which not many Universities in the country can boast.

They say, "Montana for Montana students." And we say, "The University golf links for University golfers."

Current Comment

WEEK-ENDS

Eastern colleges are now puzzling over the problem of keeping students on the campus week-ends. The universities suffer from the disintegrating effect of the student departure on Saturday and Sunday, and some suggest a six-day week with Sunday registration as the remedy. Others resignedly admit that the student of today is bound to move—to get away from whatever place he is in.

At Yale, faculty authorities are giving "serious consideration" to the weekly exodus, because they believe that campus affairs over the week-end are an important part of college life. It is not the duty of the school to provide amusement and recreation—it is up to the students, and their restlessness to get away shows that they have failed to do so.

The students themselves hold that their weekly excursions harm them in no way and are pleasant and even necessary changes for the monotonous daily routine.

Washington State has not suffered from the week-ending fad. Probably their good luck is due in part to the fact that some event is almost always arranged to arouse the interests of the students, as well as to the fact that the college is so situated that no place of sensational interest can be reached for two days—at least not until airplanes supplant the collegiate flivver. —Washington State Evergreen.

CHINESE REGISTER

Eight of the 12 Chinese government students who, after visiting the University of Washington last week, attempted to change their registration from eastern institutions, were finally successful, it was announced at the registrar's office. These Chinese were members of a party of 37.

One of the group, Miss Yan Fu, is the only woman member of the entire party. In China she attended Nan-Kai University.

The other students enrolling there are Hung-Tee Chu, Shu Djao, Tze-Hing, Ming-Shien, Ping, Teh Cheng Peng, Shiu Po Su and P. C. Tiao.

Eight different Chinese universities were attended by this group of students. They were sent here by the new nationalist government after working in the government offices for three years.

The answer may be found in the announcement of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, which states that $15,000,000 will be spent this year in removing unsafe cars from the highways. #### BASEBALL AT U. S. C.

Baseball practice at the University of Southern California is getting under way in earnest this week with the completion of repairs on the Boyard field diamond. Because of the length of the football season when Southern California's varsity continued in training up to New Year's day to meet the University of Pittsburgh in the East-West Pasadena game, the grass infield, which is on part of the football gridiron, is badly worn. The infield has just been dug up and smoothed over and is now ready for use.—U. S. C. News Service.

U. S. C. SPRING FOOTBALL

Spring football practice will start Monday, March 31, at the University of Southern California, and will continue until May 2 with the week of April 14 omitted because of the spring recess, it was announced today by Coach Howard Jones.

The Trojan mentor plans to drill his candidates in the fundamentals of his system and is now working out a variety of new formations and plays that he may use in his 1930 fall campaign. Jones does not believe in working his men hard during the spring gridiron practice, and it is his custom to hold his spring workouts only three or four times a week.—U. S. C. News Service.

CHEAP MEAT

Oregon State students prefer cheap cuts of meat to expensive ones, if their purchases at the co-operative managers' association are any guide. Instead of eating juicy sirloins, tender steaks and plump hams, they choose the exercise of cutting chuck roasts and wrestling with new and different pieces of meat found in stews.

PROSECUTING ATTORNEYS

Training of future prosecuting attorneys is the purpose of a new course which has recently been added to the curriculum of the University of Idaho college of law. The course, which is catalogued as "Criminal Procedure and Administration," will serve as a means of correlating the work of the college of law with the Idaho bar, the dean of the college believes.—Idaho Argonaut.

Dirt!

Theta Sigs Are Raking For Aber Day.

It's about this time of the year that students with guilty consciences begin to mentally squirm and feel squeamish. Aber Day approaches, and with the annual clean-up comes "Campus Raking." Dirt diggers are out in full force determined that no leaf shall be left unturned or no dirt unearthed.

A mysterious atmosphere pervades the Shack as new dirt is turned up. For the first time Freshman and Sophomore girls have been enlisted in gathering gore. "Rake, rake, rake" is the motto and the dirty work continues. Watch for "Campus Raking."

HOME EC SURVEY

The head of the home economics department at W. S. C. is carrying on studies to find out the relative cost of home laundry and power laundry. Questionnaires have been sent to the various homes in the state and also to the power laundries.

It is interesting to note that 40 percent of the homes in Rhode Island use public laundries, while in the South practically all work is done by hand-dresses.

Results of this study will be received in about a month, when the questionnaires are returned.

POSTURE

A sophomore is the only woman in Oregon State's enrollment of women with a perfect posture, according to the scoring result of posture pictures taken on the campus.

Comparison of the score of the four classes shows that the freshmen have the highest ranking. This is probably due to their present instruction in posture work. The upper classes have not had any such work since their freshman year. There are seven persons in this class who have made a score of nine, 10 being highest.

The sophomore class, with one perfect score, is second. One senior woman made a score of nine. Five seniors made a score of eight, the highest score for a class.—O. S. C. Barometer.

70,000 CHANCES FOR ERRORS

In an ordinary newspaper column there are 10,000 pieces of type; there are seven wrong positions into which a letter might be put; there are 70,000 chances to make an error and millions of chances for transpositions. In the short phrase, "to be or not to be," by transpositions alone, it is possible to make 1,759,022 errors. No wonder newspapers make errors now and then.—Central Collegian.

Rucker Offers Plan Of Improving Pi

President T. E. Rucker of the Montana State Press association suggested that the association sponsor a "Better Newspaper Month," the month of June for the year. He has written to several papers for their opinion of the plan. Idea would be to get every newspaper in the state to do his utmost to improve his paper, increase his circulation and in every way boost the business. Doubtless the business of each district will cooperate such an effort.

Foresters Have

Seven Students on Honor Roll.

Seven students in the School of forestry are included on the honor roll for the winter quarter. They are Gene Fobes, 42; Fred Blaschke, Thomas Matthews, 39; Joel Fryk 37; Charles M. Rector, 36; Ros Leavitt, 33; and Robert L. Holger. Raymond W. Ladiges and Floyd Lips made 31 grade points each, average for the whole school for quarter was 15.94 points.

CLOTHES

Fraternity men at the University of Southern California caused quite a sensation last week when they appeared in Tuxedo jackets and dirty cord trousers. Strangers to the campus were amazed to see the immaculate youth of UCLA in Tuxedos, but dirty molesters or cords in place of the conventional expanse of silk-tracks. Investigation revealed that men were returning from the photographer's where they were having pictures taken for the school year.—Daily Bruin.

ANNUAL CLEANUP MAY COME SOON

Weather To Decide Arrival of Aber Day.

"If the weather continues as it has been recently, do not be surprised if you hear the Main hall bell ring at 7 o'clock some morning. However, it may not ring for a couple weeks or more," says Jim Clark, manager of Aber day. All of the work lists have been completed and will be sent to the printers during the week-end.

On the day chosen for the annual clean-up the Main hall bell will ring at 7 o'clock and the students will report for work at 8 o'clock. The police will be on duty from 7:45 throughout the day. They will guard each entrance to the University to keep all but official cars off the campus and will visit all fraternity and sorority houses.

President C. H. Clapp will have charge of the faculty crews and their attendance. All workers will eat lunch at noon and at 12:30 o'clock a meeting of all the bosses will be held to discuss plans for the afternoon and the work accomplished.

Work will be resumed at 1:15 o'clock and will last until 4 o'clock when High Court will convene. Attendance will be checked for both morning and afternoon. The Grizzly band will play throughout the day, marching from one place to another on the campus. Shortly after dinner Phil Sheridan will start playing for the big free mixer. The A. S. U. M. primary elections will be held on this day.

The Aber day committee is composed of Jim Clark, manager, and Ray Lewis, Jimmy Morrow, Ted Mellinger, his assistants.

and the development of his bloodless revolution is brought to us daily. The Associated Press tries to render to its readers a complete and comprehensive service.

"Within the past three years it has worked up an extensive department in features and pictures. The first consideration of the organization is to get all news accurately, then to distribute that news rapidly, and thirdly to get the picture for the story. All modern conveniences are used to get the pictures to the newspapers. Picture service of the Associated Press has been greatly helped by the new developments which now make it possible for 'mats' to be sent to the newspapers at a nominal cost.

"Since the middle of March this year, comic supplements and cartoons have been added to the services given by the Associated Press. Now the Associated Press gives such comprehensive service to the newspapers as to include everything except editorials and headlines."

The Associated Press was started in the early 90's when Melvin Stone and Victor Lawson of the Chicago Daily News realized the importance of a non-private organization for the distribution of news. There are now 1,250 members of the organization, which is non-profit making. It is optional with the members if they wish to take all the supplemental services available.

"With the increased expansion of facilities, all news is handled, scientific as well as other," Mr. Nelson added. "More and more the paper is becoming educational. The history of the world can be found in the newspapers."

lobbyists which are known as fake and represent certain corporations or people for money whether they do influential work or not.

McBride summed up the essential part lobbying plays in government as providing necessary information to congressmen; giving economic representation in the government to all industries in the United States; and the possibility of remedying the defects of lobbying by legislation. McBride was cross-examined by Steiner Larsen, representing the University.

George Martin, of the University, was the first speaker for the negative and summed up the types of lobbying as these: representing the personal interests, those definitely of personal individuals, the professional and the parasitical lobbyists. He traced the investigation of the committee appointed by the Senate recently and the methods used by lobbyists. Thomas McBride of the School of Mines cross-examined Martin for eight minutes.

Joseph Newton of the School of Mines, the second speaker for the affirmative, had the experience of sitting in on the senatorial investigation in Washington, D. C. He summarized the functions of lobbyists as given by his colleague and presented the rise of corrupt political machines, if lobbying was done away with. He brought in the thin line of demarcation between lobbying and freedom of speech and the press, which would be infringed upon if lobbying were done away with. George Martin cross-examined Newton.

Steiner Larsen, Montana, the second speaker for the negative, presented the following scientific ways of providing information without the practice of lobbying: the cabinet members; the legislature itself representing the different localities of the nation; the committees, boards and bureaus at Washington whose function is to provide information; the Interstate Commerce Commission; the legislative Reference bureau; and the recent business coming educational. The history of the world can be found in the newspapers."

Freeburg Speaks at Music Club Meeting

Describes Conference of National Music Supervisors.

Prof. Roy Freeburg of the School of Music was the main speaker of the Music club Wednesday evening. He described his trip to Chicago where he attended the conference of the National Music Supervisors, held March 23 to 30.

Over six thousand music supervisors and educators attended the meeting. Besides these over seven hundred students were brought from high schools throughout the United States to play before this gathering of musicians. This was not a contest of any sort but primarily a conference of music leaders.

Prof. Freeburg said it was to help with the National High School Orchestra in managing the trumpet section. This orchestra is composed of 319 high school students under the direction of Joseph E. Maddy of Ann Arbor, Mich., and Howard Hansen, director of the Eastman Conservatory of Rochester, N. Y. On Wednesday the orchestra gave a concert before the conference. This program was broadcasted over the National Broadcasting chain, and vitaphone pictures were made of it.

Walter Damrosch, former director of the New York Symphony, directed the high school orchestra in the afternoon radio concert, playing the Meistersinger Prelude by Wagner. The veteran conductor seemed more than pleased with the performance of the orchestra, according to Prof. Freeburg.

Other high school students at the conference were members of the National High School Chorus, under the direction of Dr. Hollis Dunn, which gave a concert on Friday evening of the meeting.

John Erskine, novelist and musician, well known as the author of "Helen of Troy," and now president of the Juillard Foundation Music Conservatory, was the guest of the conference. He played the piano with the high school orchestra, rendering the Mozart Concerto.

His plan to the conference was to work toward the establishment of state opera houses or some state artistic centers, primarily to sponsor American musical talent. He has already started work on this himself and has written to governors and senators representing the states.

On his trip home Prof. Freeburg visited in Minneapolis, where he inspected the music work in the public schools and had an opportunity to see T. P. Giddings at work. Mr. Giddings is one of the famous music educators of the country.

Prof. Freeburg was able to attend a number of musical programs outside of the conference. He mentioned, especially hearing Elman, violinist, with the Chicago Symphony, and Valdimar Horowitz, pianist in the Minneapolis Symphony. Besides these he heard several famous choral organizations.

Bowden Resigns to Do Secretarial Work

Ray B. Bowden, who attended the University of Montana last year and returned to resume his duties at Montana State in Bozeman, resigned his position there to accept a position as secretary of the Northwest County elevator association, according to the Weekly Exponent. Bowden resigned April 1 and will have his headquarters in Minneapolis.

He has been associated with Montana State college since 1917 when he came there as director of publicity for the Federal Food administration. It was while serving in this capacity that he was associated with President Atkinson and his appointment as editor of Montana State college, following the completion of the Food Administration work. He became editor in 1919.

One of the many activities of Mr. Bowden was his staging of successful interscholastic basketball tournaments. He has been chairman of the committee for four years and the fact that he served while the Bobcats were at their peak and brought the tournament through successfully is only further evidence of the value of his services.

As an accomplished musician, Bowden has served in every musical organization at Montana State college. Each year he has accompanied the Bobcat band on its annual spring tour and was instrumental in bringing about the organization of the Montana Symphony Orchestra that brought music to the most remote corners of the state. As editor of the State college he also directed the publicity of the Montana Experiment station and the Montana Extension service.

DOUBLE AREA FOR SPRING DRILLING

Clear Waste Tract for R. O. T. C. Parade Ground.

The work of leveling the ground between the present R. O. T. C. drill field and Beckwith avenue will double the area that can be used for drilling. The territory that is being graded has been merely a stretch of waste ground, too rough to use for any school purpose. After being smoothed out, however, it will be ideal for parade ground purposes.

The stumps have been removed and the larger humps taken out by tractor, as preliminary work. This week-end the ground will be smoothed and rolled, and on Aber Day the rocks will be picked out. The work will also be extended to the area north of the sidewalk coming from South hall. Lieutenant H. J. LaCroix is in charge of the work, and he is assisted by students of the School of Forestry.

He is a member of Kappa Psi, national men's pharmacy fraternity, and also of Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity. He is one of eight alumni of the School of Pharmacy to be employed by large manufacturing concerns as traveling salesmen or retailers.

Mr. Longpre will address the pharmacy students again at a later date, using a movie film to illustrate his talk. His present headquarters are in Butte.

FURNITURE A notice preserved in a scrapbook brings to light the following required articles of furniture which all students in the University of Tennessee in 1888 were compelled to either bring with them to school or buy in the college town; one single bed, one single mattress, one round table, one chair, one tub, one bucket and dipper, one coal scuttle, one washpan, one mirror, one student's lamp. The total cost in those days was about $12 for the above articles. Rooms were inspected to make sure that all these articles were present.—Campus News.

Elect Montana for Frat Meeting of '31

Women Pharmacists Will Gather Here For Annual Convention.

The tenth annual meeting of Kappa Epsilon, national women's pharmacy fraternity, will be held here in May, 1931, according to Miss Ida Frederickson, who has just returned from attending the ninth annual convention in Iowa City. Miss Muriel Stoner, '29, now employed in the Missoula Drug company, was elected Grand Historian of the fraternity at this meeting. Miss Naomi Kennevik of Iowa was elected Grand President.

The scholarship cup awarded to the chapter with the highest average was won this year by the chapter at the University of Minnesota. Delta, the local chapter, won the cup last year and the year before. This cup will remain in the permanent possession of the chapter winning it most out of 10 times. University of Nebraska won the cup the first year it was given, four years ago.

Four business sessions were held at the convention. A large representation of chapters attended. A bridge luncheon, a dinner, a tour of inspection of the campus, and a banquet and dance were provided for the visiting delegates.

Kappa Epsilon has seven chapters located at the Universities of Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Ohio, Montana and Indiana. It was founded at the University of Iowa in 1921.

MONTANANS TAKE STEPS TO SAVE HISTORIC SPOTS FROM DESTRUCTION

Stone, Phillips, Head Committee Furthering Interest in Work of Restoration.

Definite steps are being taken to preserve historical places in Montana as is evidenced by the number of these places in the state which are either being reconstructed or made into memorials. Dean A. L. Stone of the School of Journalism and Professor Paul C. Phillips of the history department of the University are on a local committee to further this work. Work in the Missoula district is especially centered around the work of restoring Fort Owen near Stevensville. In Southwestern Montana a movement is being made to restore Robbers' Roost near Virginia City.

Dean A. L. Stone in a talk before the Rotary club said that Fort Owen is a monument to the beginning of civilization in Montana. "By preserving, maintaining and emphasizing it we can develop an even greater spirit of state consciousness which would make the project a most worthwhile one."

The history of the fort dates back to a meeting between Selish and Iroquois Indians in this locality in 1830, when the Western tribe received the first whispering of the new gospel which instigated the five pilgrimages to St. Louis for the "black robes." The aborigines' desire for the new faith was realized in 1841, when Father De Smet built the first mission and established the first permanent white settlement in Montana on the site of Fort Owen.

During the following years the Indians became restless and discontented, so in 1850 the mission was sold to Major John Owen who replaced the log stockade with an adobe compound and established living quarters and a supply center there. In the area immediately surrounding Fort Owen all of Montana's industries had their origin. A sawmill and a grist mill were rebuilt and farming was started there. The fort became a supply station and a refuge, and about it centered many of the most dramatic incidents relative to the early history of the state.

"It is worthwhile to direct attention to this old building which is one of the epoch-making structures we can still preserve. Many incidents, all significant of the great spirit which characterized that period, hinge about Fort Owen. No preservation project of the nature now before the people of Western Montana is more worthy of hearty support than the rebuilding of that place," the dean said.

Virginia City Elks are now making efforts to make "Robbers' Roost" a memorial, according to the Bozeman Weekly Exponent. It was once a stronghold of Montana's road agents and in its day the rendezvous for every desperate character that stamped the rich gold fields of Alder Gulch, Bannack and Virginia City. In view of the fact that this place is one of the points of early day significance in Montana and as such should be preserved for posterity, the Virginia City Elks are inaugurating a state-wide campaign to raise funds for the purchase and restoration of Robbers' Roost and grounds to its original state.

The building, a two-story low home of colonial design with pillars supporting a second-story porch, surrounded by huge cottonwood trees, is situated on the Vigilante trail about 15 miles east of Virginia City. It is now in a state of almost complete ruin, tourists having ransacked the property, and the remainder of the decay is being carried on by the elements.

Seventy years ago the name "Robbers' Roost" was whispered in hated breath by honest miners and business men, who were in daily fear of the activity of the bold and ruthless road agents of the day. Led by the astute Plummer, the band of fearless murderers patrolled the trails and roads in all directions leading from Virginia City, Bannack and Alder Gulch, intercepting miners with their pockets of gold and merchants with their savings and stock of supplies. Organization of the famed Vigilantes a few years later curbed and finally stamped out the robbers' activities, more than a dozen of the men being hanged after swift and summary hearings before miners' courts.

Work for restoring other historical places into memorials of the early days of Montana follows:

Work is now being done at St. Mary's mission on the building itself and in the graveyard in which Father Ravalli is buried.

Spanish Club Meet Is Well Attended

Thirty-five members attended the meeting of the Spanish club at the Delta Gamma house Wednesday evening.

Professor B. E. Thomas read a number of interesting comments, taken from a series of 50 contributions by leading writers to the magazine Hispania, telling of the wide cultural value of Spanish literature as well as its commercial benefits. The general opinion of the writers was that Spanish ranks very high on the cultural scale.

The club sang several Spanish translations as the Pagan Love Song, Ramona and others. Nat Allen played the accompaniment.

Glenn Lockwood, president of the club, extended thanks to the cast and workers of the play "Zaraguetta" produced last quarter. Plans for a picnic were discussed.

PTOMAIN POISONING

Suddenly stricken with acute ptomaine poisoning from food eaten in a nearby restaurant 15 students from the Dental clinic of U. S. C. were removed to a nearby receiving hospital for secondary treatment. They were later permitted to go to their homes after suffering no further effects.

The first complaints of poisoning symptoms came about 3 o'clock in the afternoon from several students who had eaten lunch in the restaurant. Some were affected so quickly that they were forced to leave their patients in their chairs. A faculty member of the College of Dentistry administered first aid which probably averted serious consequences.

Health officers started an immediate investigation as to the cause of the poisoning and it was learned that unsanitary conditions and bad food were responsible. Health officers reported that the owner of the restaurant was dealt with severely and warned to maintain a higher standard of sanitation.

HASHING

Hashing is the most popular in the line of work at the University of Idaho. According to statistics issued by the personnel department of the school recently there are 103 men holding such jobs at the present time, which number is a great predominance over the other kinds of occupations by which Idaho students work their way through school. The records compiled by Dr. Mosher, head of the personnel bureau, and his assistants are aggregated from questionnaires filled out at the time of registration. These blanks contain data on campus activities and offices, in addition to the desired information regarding student employment.
